What does the training cover?

Our evaluation training is available in easy-read and plain language and is designed to cover the following topics as a minimum;

- An introduction to evaluation,
- Staying safe and being ethical,
- Introduction to collecting qualitative data,
- Introduction to collecting quantitative data,
- What to do with the qualitative and quantitative data you collect,
- How to share what you've found.

Please click here to learn more about our Training Menu.

How is the training delivered?

Our evaluation training is designed to be delivered as 2-hour sessions over a period of weeks or across the lifespan of your evaluation project as you are doing it. There is also the option to undertake an intensive course delivered over consecutive days. The training can be delivered online or in person.

What do others have to say about the training?

"I hated methods before this, it made it interesting and so much easier to understand."

"Having the chance to learn, talk and do evaluation has been great. I have learnt a lot and am using it in other work I am doing."

Where can I get more information?

If you are interested in learning more about our evaluation training offer, or if you would like to explore commissioning the training for a project you or your organisation are thinking of developing or delivering, please fill in the form below. A member of NDTi's Research and Evaluation Team will be in touch to explore your needs.

- Name:
- Organisation:
- Contact Number:
- Email Address:
- Preferred way for us to contact you:
- Preferred days/times for us to contact you:
- Please provide a brief summary of the training you would like to know more about/are interested in commissioning: